

Brandes Investment Partners
European Equity Strategy Notes
First Quarter 2025 (1 January – 31 March 2025)

The Brandes European Equity Strategy rose 9.44% (gross of fees), underperforming its benchmark, the MSCI Europe Index, which increased 10.48% in the quarter as well as the MSCI Europe Value Index, which appreciated 16.13%.

Positive Contributors

Within the MSCI Europe Index, the two best-performing industries by a fairly wide margin were aerospace and defence, and banks. The strategy's leading contributors were in these two industries, led by our investment in France-based bank BNP Paribas. European banks have performed well this year. Their performance has been driven by better-than-expected earnings growth plus an improved economic environment. These conditions have led to a growth in loans and improved market optimism, which has resulted in rising valuations. Due to this strong performance, we have pared some of our holdings modestly and are now near an equal weight for banks against the broad index.

Notable aerospace and defence contributors included Rolls Royce in the U.K. and Lisi in France. Rolls Royce's share price has appreciated substantially over the past few years as its end-markets recovered, leading improved earnings and cash flow generation. Rolls Royce announced upgraded fiscal year guidance and a share buyback as its balance sheet has improved significantly from the depths of the pandemic downturn.

Other contributors included communication service companies Magyar Telekom in Hungary and Orange in France. Magyar saw its share price rise after reporting earnings results that were ahead of market expectations and announcing a dividend increase. Consumer products producer Heineken Holding and luxury goods company Compagnie Financiere Richemont also rose after announcing improving earnings results.

Performance Detractors

Many technology-related stocks pulled back, and in keeping with that trend, our allocation to Netherlands-based semiconductor company STMicroelectronics detracted from overall returns. Market doubts about the recovery of its industrial and automotive end-markets continued to weigh on the stock. However, with our longer-term focus, we continue to believe the shares offer an appealing investment opportunity at today's valuation levels.

Other material detractors included investments in the communication services and consumer sectors. These included advertising agencies WPP and Publicis, luxury goods companies Kering and Swiss watchmaker Swatch, as well as consumer staples holdings Henkel, J Sainsbury and C&C Group.

U.K.-based advertising agency WPP declined after issuing weaker guidance for 2025 because a potential turnaround continues to take longer than anticipated; the stock price of its France-based peer, Publicis, also fell due to concerns about weaker industry growth this year.

Despite improved earnings results, France-based luxury goods company Kering weakened after its recently appointed CEO announced a new creative director for the company's Gucci brand. This new hire will likely result in a potential rebound taking longer than the market had previously expected. Additionally, after rising early in the quarter, the luxury goods industry subsequently softened as a result of increasing uncertainty about the U.S. macro environment and the effect of tariffs on U.S. consumer purchases.

While substantial pessimism has undermined Kering in the short term, we believe the shares offer an attractive long-term opportunity given the company's robust free cash flow in different economic environments, durable brand recognition, management alignment with shareholders, and its current valuation discount relative to its own history and that of its peers.

Shares of Ireland-based beverage company C&C Group declined amid a weaker U.K. hospitality environment, as well as market uncertainty about the timing of a potential turnaround. Its new CEO took office during the quarter and is implementing a strategic plan to simplify its business segment lines and invest in a brand turnaround.

Compared to both the broad and value index, the strategy's underweight to financials, the best performing sector in the index, was a detractor from returns.

Select Activity in the Quarter

Activity was higher than it has been in recent periods as we divested several companies that performed well, notably Germany-based Heidelberg Materials and Spain-based Atresmedia. Meanwhile, short-term and company-specific market negativity also led us to deploy capital into more attractively priced investment opportunities, including spirits company Pernod Ricard, IT Service firm Capgemini, Ireland-based pharmaceutical firm Avadel, commercial services company U.K.-based Rentokil, and Germany-based consumer apparel company PUMA.

Capgemini is a global IT services/consulting company based in France. Capgemini is a well-regarded partner for many software providers (e.g., SAP and MSFT) in Europe. It has improved its product mix over time, increasing its exposure to higher-value-added offerings with secular growth potential (digital transformation, cloud, outsourced engineering and R&D, AI, etc.), while reducing its exposure to the low-growth outsourcing segment.

The IT services industry in general benefitted significantly during 2020–2022 as corporations sought to better digitize their capabilities during the pandemic. But during the past couple of years, the IT services industry has experienced a decline in corporate discretionary tech budgets (excluding AI and cybersecurity). While some of its peers are starting to show indications of resumed discretionary spending to normal levels, Capgemini has had lagging revenue growth. Sentiment soured after the company delivered lower-than-expected revenue guidance, which suggests its recovery may be prolonged.

Capgemini currently trades at a marked discount vis-a-vis its peers. This is partially warranted because of its greater exposure to Europe (~60% of revenues versus most competitors at 20–35%) and to manufacturing (particularly autos, which is cyclically depressed). However, we believe the current discount provides a compelling opportunity to own a structurally growing business that earns high return on capital at what we consider an attractive price.

France-based Pernod Ricard is one of the world's largest premium spirits companies (first by volume, second by value). It has a strong brand portfolio, owning 18 of the top 100 brands (e.g., Martell, Jameson, Absolut, Chivas) and significant exposure to emerging markets, which comprise nearly half of its sales.

However, the company's share price has declined recently primarily due to concerns over future prospects in the U.S. and China, which together make up ~29% of group sales. In the U.S., the spirits market declined in volume and value terms in 2023 for the first time in more than a decade. In China, growth expectations for the market remain uncertain due to a weak macro environment and downtrading in spirits. Despite these recent challenges, Pernod Ricard remains a high-quality business with defensive characteristics. We believe it represents a compelling opportunity in light of its low earnings multiple. And we think the company offers long-term growth potential, given its end-market exposure, as well as potential margin expansion from operating leverage. For these reasons, we initiated a position in Pernod Ricard.

Current Positioning

The Brandes European Equity Strategy holds key overweight positions in communication services and consumer staples, while maintaining significantly lower allocations to materials, financials and industrials than the benchmark.

On a geographic basis, the portfolio's largest allocations continue to be in France and the United Kingdom. The strategy remains underweight in Germany and Switzerland, as well as to companies in the Nordic Region.

The quarter witnessed a reversal of a number of market trends we have seen over the past several years as European stocks dramatically outperformed U.S. stocks (MSCI Europe vs. MSCI USA) and value stocks surpassed growth stocks (MSCI Europe Value vs. MSCI Europe Growth).

We cannot predict if this pattern will continue. But we do believe that European and value stocks offer compelling return potential based on their current valuation levels.

Before this quarter, U.S. stocks had outperformed European stocks for the past 15 years. However, that dominance was only partly shaped by fundamentals. The gap was also influenced by a climbing U.S. dollar and an increasingly expensive U.S. stock market based on various valuation multiples (or "multiple expansion"). These factors have powered ~5% annualized of U.S. outperformance versus European markets since 2011. Given elevated levels of the U.S. Dollar (it approached record highs as 2024 closed but started to wane as 2025 began) and U.S. valuations, it seems unlikely to us that this tailwind will continue. If it reversed modestly (as is occurring now), we believe it could become a strong tailwind for European stocks. On a sector-adjusted basis, European stocks continue to trade near some of the largest valuation discounts versus U.S. stocks; we believe that disparity should continue to bode well for value.

Value stocks outperformed the overall market during the quarter (MSCI Europe Value vs. MSCI Europe). But they continued to trade among the cheapest quartile relative to their history on a variety of valuation measures compared to growth stocks. Historically, those discounts have augured well for value during the subsequent three- to five-year period. Notably, our portfolio—guided by our value philosophy and process—has tended to outperform the benchmark when value stocks have outperformed the MSCI Europe Index, especially over longer-term time horizons. We therefore believe the Brandes European Equity Strategy is an excellent complement and diversifier versus passive and growth-oriented strategies.

Uncertainty is an enduring feature of markets, though market unease may seem more elevated today than during many periods in the past 10–15 years. However, we believe it is also prudent to recall that markets do evolve over time, and companies will adapt to their changing environments. While recently announced tariffs add complications, their impact and duration could vary by company/industry. As a fundamental, bottom-up, research-focused manager, Brandes is in a favourable position to capitalize on over- and under-reactions as potentially mispriced companies adapt to their new operating realities.

Looking ahead, we remain optimistic about the long-term prospects of the companies owned by the Brandes European Equity Strategy. As of 31 March 2025, our strategy traded at what we consider more compelling valuation levels than the benchmark and the MSCI Europe Value Index.

Term definitions: <https://www.brandes.com/termdefinitions>

Multiple Expansion – an increase in a valuation multiple such as a Price to Earnings multiple.

The MSCI Europe Growth Index captures large and mid cap securities across developed Europe exhibiting growth style characteristics, defined using long-term forward earnings per share (EPS) growth rate, short-term forward EPS growth rate, current internal growth rate, long-term historical EPS growth trend, and long-term historical sales per share growth trend.

The MSCI Europe Index with net dividends captures large and mid cap representation of developed market countries in Europe.

The MSCI Europe Value Index captures large and mid cap securities across developed Europe exhibiting value style characteristics, defined using book value to price, 12-month forward earnings to price, and dividend yield.

The MSCI USA Index measures the performance of the large and mid cap segments of the U.S. equity market.

MSCI has not approved, reviewed or produced this report, makes no express or implied warranties or representations and is not liable whatsoever for any data in the report. You may not redistribute the MSCI data or use it as a basis for other indices or investment products.

Diversification does not assure a profit or protect against a loss in a declining market.

The foregoing Quarterly Commentary reflects the thoughts and opinions of Brandes exclusively and is subject to change without notice. The information provided in the commentary should not be considered a recommendation to purchase or sell any particular security. It should not be assumed that any security transactions, holdings or sectors discussed were or will be profitable, or that the investment recommendations or decisions we make in the future will be profitable or will equal the investment performance discussed herein. International and emerging markets investing is subject to certain risks such as currency fluctuation and social and political changes; such risks may result in greater share price volatility. There is no assurance that any securities discussed herein will remain in an account's portfolio at the time you receive this report or that the securities sold have not been repurchased. The actual characteristics with respect to any particular account will vary based on a number of factors including but not limited to: (i) the size of the account; (ii) investment restrictions applicable to the account, if any; and (iii) market exigencies at the time of investment. Unlike bonds issued or guaranteed by the U.S. government or its agencies, stocks and other bonds are not backed by the full faith and credit of the United States. Stock and bond prices will experience market fluctuations. Please note that the value of government securities and bonds in general have an inverse relationship to interest rates. Bonds carry the risk of default, or the risk that an issuer will be unable to make income or principal payment. There is no assurance that private guarantors or insurers will meet their obligations. The credit quality of the investments in the portfolio is not a guarantee of the safety or stability of the portfolio. Investments in Asset Backed and Mortgage Backed Securities include additional risks that investors should be aware of such as credit risk, prepayment risk, possible illiquidity and default, as well as increased susceptibility to adverse economic developments. Securities of small companies generally experience more volatility than mid and large sized companies. Although the statements of fact and data in this report have been obtained from, and are based upon, sources that are believed to be reliable, we cannot guarantee their accuracy, and any such information may be incomplete or condensed. Strategies discussed are subject to change at any time by the investment manager in its discretion due to market conditions or opportunities. The Brandes investment approach tends to result in portfolios that are materially different than their benchmarks with regard to characteristics such as risk, volatility, diversification, and concentration. Please note that all indices are unmanaged and are not available for direct investment. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. No investment strategy can assure a profit or protect against loss. Market conditions may impact performance. The performance results presented were achieved in particular market conditions which may not be repeated. Moreover, the current market volatility and uncertain regulatory environment may have a negative impact on future performance. The margin of safety for any security is defined as the discount of its market price to what the firm believes is the intrinsic value of that security. The declaration and payment of shareholder dividends are solely at the discretion of the issuer and are subject to change at any time.

Ireland/Europe: FOR PROFESSIONAL INVESTOR USE ONLY. Issued by Brandes Investment Partners (Europe) Limited (Brandes Europe), Alexandra House, The Sweepstakes, Ballsbridge, Dublin, D04 C7H2, Ireland. Registered in Ireland Number 510203. Authorised and regulated by the Central Bank of Ireland. This report is being provided for information purposes only, no representation or warranty is made, whether express or implied as to the accuracy or completeness of the information provided. To the fullest extent permitted by law Brandes Europe shall not be liable for any loss or damage suffered by any person as a result of the receipt of this report. Recipients of this report should obtain their own professional advice. The distribution of this report may be restricted by law. No action has been or will be taken by Brandes Europe to permit the possession or distribution of this report in any jurisdiction where action for that purpose may be required. Accordingly, this report may not be used in any jurisdiction except under circumstances that will result in compliance with any applicable laws and regulations. Persons to whom this report is communicated should inform themselves about and observe any such restrictions. This information is being issued only to, and/or is directed only at (i) persons who have professional experience in matters relating to investments or (ii) are persons falling within Article 49(2)(a) to (d) ("high net worth companies, unincorporated associations etc.") of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Financial Promotion) Order 2005 or to whom it may otherwise lawfully be communicated (all such persons together being referred to as "Relevant Persons"). This communication must not be acted on or relied on by persons who are not Relevant Persons. Any investment or investment activity to which this communication relates is available only to Relevant Persons and will be engaged in only with Relevant Persons. This report is a confidential communication to, and solely for the use of, the persons to whom it is distributed to by Brandes Europe.